EVENT ACCESS

You have registered for a Livestream & Recording Ticket.

The Livestream will begin with a countdown timer at 10:55am PST. At that time, the "Watch Livestream" button on the whiteboard in the Virtual Classroom will take you directly to the Livestream video. If it is not working, try refreshing your browser just after 10:55am.

This event will be approximately 45-55 minutes. If at any point you find your students are getting restless or frustrated, feel free to take a break and finish the event via the Livestream Recording. If you have remote students joining the event via the Livestream, we recommend sending them the link to the Virtual Classroom and they will be able to connect from there.

ABOUT THE ARTIST

Andrea Fritz

Andrea Fritz is a Coast Salish artist and author from the Lyackson First Nation of the Hul'qumi'num speaking Peoples on the West Coast of Canada. She learned West Coast Native art in the Victoria school district from Victor Newman (Kwagiulth).

Andrea strives to express her People's history and all our futures using her art. She focuses on animals and scenes of the West Coast of Canada and our intricate relationships with them. Andrea works in the mediums of acrylic on canvas/wood, serigraph, vector art, and multimedia. She has had numerous shows of her work including at Eagle Feather Gallery, the Place Gallery and The Outpost at Ketchikan.

Coast Salish Tales - New Beginnings

New Beginnings is the first book in Andrea's Coast Salish Tales series. In this class, Andrea will be reading from her upcoming book 'It's Okay to Say, "I Don't Know" - The story of Sthuqi and Tumus.'

This story, written in the traditional Coast Salish style, includes words from the Hul'qumi'num language of the Cowichan Valley on Vancouver Island, Canada. New Beginnings is a story inspired by the replacement of a much loved tree in the Oaklands area of Victoria.

MATERIALS

Your students will need pencils, erasers, and your choice of colouring utensils (markers, crayons, pencil crayons). You will also need blank paper or copies of the printable pages in this package.

EVENT DURATION

This class is likely longer than the attention span of some of our younger participants and there may be times when some students cannot keep up with Andrea's instructions. If you find your students are getting restless or frustrated, feel free to take a break and finish the class via the Livestream Recording where you will be able to start and stop the video as needed. The Livestream Recording can be accessed through the Virtual Classroom.
